D'MORSE'S INVICORATING CORDIAL

TOR GENITAL DEBILITY, IMPOTENCY, INCONTINENCE, OR NOCTURNAL EMISSIONS, &c.—The astonishing success which has attended this invaluable medicine, for Lors of Muscular Energy, Physical Lassitude, and General Prostration, or any of the consequences of youthful indiscretion, or indulgence of the passion in riper years, renders it the most valuable preparation ever discovered. In fact, as a remedy for the above complaints, it stands unrivelled and alone. There is no other reliable remedy, or any that has authantically received the sauction of the Medical Faculty. The WONDERFUL VEGETABLE PRODUCTION of which this medicine is composed has been tested, and its virtues proclaimed, by the highest names of the faculty of London, Paris, and the other cities of Europe, as well as by eminent Physicians in this country. It is the only infallible remedy for NERVOUS, HEAD, and MIND COMPLAINTS—the mental physic so long sought for and never before found—the only agent that can administer to MIND DISEASES. It will remove all nervous affections. DEPRESSION, EXOUTEMENT, inexpacity to study or business, loss of MEMORY, CONFUSION, thoughts of self-destruction, fear of insanity, &c., it will restore the appetite, renew the health of those who have destroyed it by Somstul Excesses or evil practicey. It has been said by some that those disorders, emissions, &c., were incurable. This, however, is not the fact.

DR. MORSE'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL has cured,

This, however, is not the fact.
DR. MORSE'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL has cured d is constantly curing, these complaints—relieving the ental and bodily incapacity of the unfortunate sufferer, as a following testimony of the names received will conclu-

the following testimony of the names received will conclusively show:

Dr. Woodward, of —, Masrachusetts Insane Hospital, writes of one of his patients being cured by using this Cordial thus: "It gives me pleasure to inform you that one of my patients, while in Boston, procured some of your Cordial. He tells me that he has not had a single emission since he commenced tasking it, while before he had two or three a week. When he applied to me," says Dr. W., "I thought it hardly pessible for him ever to regain his full strength. I prescribed the usual medicine used in those cases in the hospital, but they had no sifect. In the mean time he purchased some of your Cordial, which has effected a time I am sure no other medicine would. I shall ever recommend it, whenever an opportunity occurs."

The nature of the maissiles relieved by this Cordial are generally such as to leave the publication of cardificates of cures out of the question. The proprietor could produce a host of the most conclusive testimony to show that the great reputation it enjoys was not accidentally obtained, but is firmly based upon its pesitive and apparently miraculous virtues. In all directions are to be found the happy parents of healthy offsprings, who would not have been so but for this extraordinary preparation. And it is equally potent for many diseases for which it is recommended.

THE MEDICAL JOURNALS

have not, in a single instance that has been authenticated, given their sanction to any other preparation for the above complaints. It has, in many violent and desperate cases, effected radical cures, after patients had been abandoned, and their condition pronounced hopeless by medical practitioners of high professional character.

THE COMMON EXPRESSION of those who have used this Extract is: "I had heard your Cordial highly spoken of, but was one of the incredulous in regard to its merits, having tried various medicines sold for the same purpose, (different Sarsaparillas,) without deriving any benefit. I had almost given up all hope of obtaining relief, when I purchased some of your Cordial. I had no faith whatever of its benefiting me—but it has. I feel stronger, have had no emissions since, although it is not three weeks. I am satisfied that the half a dozen bottles I took will cure me."

Another says: "I had consulted several distinguished physicians. Some said I could not be cured; others prescribed this thing and that; but I found no relief until I prooured some of your Cordial. I must say is completely cured me."

Another says: "I was surprised at the effect your Cordial produced some of your Cordisi. I must say a cured me."

Another says: "I was surprised at the effect your Cordisi had. Why had I not heard of it before? It would have saved me so much expense, beddes years of mental and boddly suffering."

CAUTION.—Ask for Dr. Moras's Cordial, and take no other, as there are worthless imitations which its unrivalled other, as there are worthless imitations which its unrivalled

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weskness of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arise from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice se fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its Victims, from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alsa's how often do they assribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Indigestion. derangement of the Nervous System, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption; also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits, or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is, they have been caused by indulging in Perniclous but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind. Thus are swept from existence thousands who might have been of use to their Country, a pleasure to their friends, and ornaments to Society.

DR. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

This grand and important Remedy has restored strength and vigor to thousands of the most debilitated individuals, many who had lost all hopes, and been abandoned to die. By its complete invigoration of the Nervous System, the whole faculties become restored to their proper power and functions, and the fallen fabric of life is raised up to beauty, consistency and duration, upon the ruins of an emaciated and gremature decline, to sound and pristine health. Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion! Such persons, before contemplating should reflect that a sound mind and bedy are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without this, the journey through life becomes a weary pligrimage; the prospect hearly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own. General Pierce on Abolitionism.

General Pierce is supported upon his avowal of the most decided pro-slavery sentiments. We purpose proving the insincerity of this avowal, or of his past acts. To the expression of his opinions he is heartily welcome; but, if guilty of duplicity, he is unworthy of the suffrages of his countrymen. Read, and determine for yourselves!

He said that no man abhorred slavery more than himself, and that no man would do more than himself to abolish slam would do more than himself to abolish slavery if it could be done consistent with the Constitution; that he thought we ought to adhere to unhappily for them, and particularly for General Pierce, the records of their proceedings, both in

STEPHEN WHIPPLE Sworn, July 28, 1852, before

JOS. COCHRAN, Jr., Justice of the Peace. Comment on such a mass of irrefragible evidence would seem to be unnecessary, but nevertheless we will point to some of the prominent facts as being worthy of particular attention. The reader will observe that the case against General Pierce is not attempted to be made out by one broad sweeping statement, signed by a multitude of persons, but each witness tells the story for himself; and obviously without concert or communication with the other witnesses. The reader will also observe that there is in the evidence one of the highest characteristics of truthful narrative, viz: exact coincidence as to all the essentials, with diversity on immaterial points. There is moreover great fairness and candor manifested in the statements; where they do not favor of General Pierce, they give him the benefit of it. And above all, the reader must remem- jects." ber that these statements, unlike those adduced on the other side, are made under the solemnity of an oath. They come from witnesses who are prompted by no motive to deceive, and we regret that this cannot be said of Gen. Pierce and his friends. They are without the slightest interest in the matter, and probably most of them would prefer the election of General Pierce to General Scott. They appear only to vindicate the truth of history, and there stands the record, placed on high ground, beyond the power of art, chicanery and malice to obliterate or destroy. But there are some parts of this testimony which we deem of a very striking character, to which we must, in brief terms, point the attention of the reader. We have, in the first place, witnesses referring to the report itself, and swearing to its substantial correctness; one of them adding that he never heard it doubted until it became "necessary to contradict it to save General Pierce's credit with his Southern friends." Another witness was so strongly impressed with General Pierce's "home views" on the subject of slavery, that he said to a number of individuals, after returning home, "that he (General Pierce) was as good an abolitionist as kimself if he would only stick;" and another, that he "was as strong an anti-slavery man as any we had about here " We submit, was not the language attributed to General P. by Mr. Foss adapted to produce exactly such impressions? Then we have a large number of witnesses swearing to the very words reported in the two "Democrats"that he loathed the fugitive slave law, and had the most revolting feeling at the giving up of a slave." Then we have another set of witnesses who give substantially the same language, but adding that General Pierce said we must submit to the law for the sake of the Union-some saying that he made this declaration in an unqualified form, and others that he added the words "for the present"—thus qualifying the submission which he proposed. We doubt whether, in the whole history of kuman testimony, there has ever been exhibited such a thorough confirmation Franklin Pierce made a political speech, and I statements of Mr. Foss. We have not only the CANARY AND HEMP SEED.

distinctly recollect that he spoke of slavery and words in dispute confirmed, but also the whole train of thought and line of argument. The re-porter admits that General Pierce avowed himself in favor of acquiescence in the Compromise measures, and that he even made an argument on the necesssity of adhesion to the fugitive slave law, just as the witnesses swear. We do not hesitate to affirm, in the broadest terms, that General Franklin Pierce did, at New Boston, on the 2d of January, assert in a public assembly that he considered slavery "contrary to moral right;" that he "loathed the fugitive slave law," and that he had "a most revolting feeling at the giving up of a slave;" and we con-sider the attempts of himself and friends at evasion, and his and their half denials, fatal to his character as a frank, sincere man.

But there are collateral facts and considerations which tend powerfully to sustain the accuracy of Mr. Foss, and to show the truth of his allegations. From the matter hereinbefore inserted it appears that General Pierce, Norris, Hisbard, Peaslee, Ayer, and Campbell are full of the idea that Mr. Foss can be discredited at the South by a mere allegation of abolitionism or freesoilism, and they seem to roll up their eyes in holy horror at the presumption of the Parson in charging on the General the expressions of anti-slavery public, that the New Hampshire Democracy had which was addressed by Gen. Franklin Pierce, been, during the whole of the fearful struggle and I recollect that he spoke of slavery and the through which the country has recently passed, very, if it could be done consistent with the Con- leaned over considerably towards the South. But conventions and legislative assemblies, disclose a very different state of things. We undertake to prove that the Democracy of the Granite State, with General Pierce at their head, have pursued an extreme course on these subjects, and have in fact been the ringleaders of all the fanaticism and agitation which have been going on in New England for several years past. To that end we point to the resolutions reported by General Pierce to the Democratic Convention held at Concord, June 11th, 1846, in which moral wrong and revolting to his feelings, but to the makes his party declare, that they "deplored which we must submit for the sake of preserving the existence of slavery, and regarded it as a great social and moral evil;" also to the resolu-tions reported by the flon. C. H. Peaslee to a like convention, held at the same place on the 28th of October, 1847, over which the Hon. Mr. Norris presided, in which they declare, that "none are nore opposed than themselves to the continuance or wider extension of slavery; and that they will oppose so great an evil to the progress of civiliary, 1852, at which Gen. Franklin Pierce made a zation and humanity, whenever a proper occasion political speech, and I distinctly recollect that he shall arrive, by every measure consistent with the spoke of slavery and the fugitive slave law as a Coastitution." * * * * * And they add, "We declare it our solemn conviction, as the Democratic party bave 'eretofore done, that nei-ther slavery nor involuntary servitude should hereafter exist in any Territory which may be acquired or annexed to the United States, and that we approve the votes of our delegation in Congress in favor of the Wilmot Proviso." Also, to a set of resolutions passed by the legislature of New Hampshire, largely Democratic, signed existence, and insist "that in all territory that shall hereafter be added to, or acquired by, the United States, where slavery does not exist at the time of such addition or acquirement, neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except for the punishment of crime, whereof the party | as been duly convicted, ought ever to exist, but the same should ever remain free." Also, to similar resolutions, passed by the legislature of the ber 29th, in which they take the same ground : acter. Also, to a resolution, passed and approved

" Resolved, That, in our belief, Congress has the constitutional power to prohibit the introduction of slavery into any Territory now free, and that we are in favor of the use at this time of that power; but that while we claim to ourselves, as Democrats, the right to the full and free exercise of our opinions upon this subject, without coercion or proscription therefor, from any quarter, we are willing to concede the same privileges to our brethren entertaining different pinions in other sections of the country-recognising, as members of the Democratic family, all who, though differing from us upon minor or temporary questions, are yet united in support of the great and vital principles which have consti-tuted the republican platform from the days of Jefferson to the present time."

Then we have the following, passed on the same day: us Resolved That in our opinion Congress has the constitutional power to abolish the slave trade and slavery in the District of Corecollect the precise words they say so, and where they remember language which would operate in and our Representatives requested, to take all conitutional measures to accomplish these ob-
